

A Brief History of the First Presbyterian Church Portland, Indiana, 2009

Although statistics since 1898 are available as well as church yearbooks from 1922 until the present, this history will be based mainly on information found in our 100th Year and 125th Year History Books. Should anyone read these Presbyterian History Books, he would find similarities in each concerning the membership.

In general, the people of this congregation can be described as well-educated and interested in the arts. They are hard-workers. They have often been business leaders and teachers. But their most enduring quality has involved their love of children and community. As early as the 1900's, this was said: This church has "developed a remarkable interest in the benevolent causes of the church at large." To prove this we have only to look at the following list (now updated) found in the archives:
